NOTICE OF HEALTH INFORMATION PRIVACY PRACTICES

This notice describes how medical information about you may be used and disclosed and how you can get access to this information. Please review it carefully. In Avanti Health is required to maintain the privacy of your health information and to provide you with a notice of its legal duties and privacy practices. In Avanti Health will not use or disclose your health information except as described in this Notice.

This Notice applies to all of the medical records generated by In Avanti Health as well as records we receive from other providers.

Uses and Disclosures Requiring Your Consent

With your consent, In Avanti Health may use and disclose your health information for the following purposes:

Treatment: In Avanti Health may use your health information in the provision and coordination of your healthcare. We may disclose all or any portion of your medical record information to your attending healthcare provider, consulting physician(s), nurses, technicians, medical students, and alternative health care providers who have a legitimate need for such information in your care and treatment. Different departments may share health information about you in order to coordinate specific services, such as prescriptions, lab work, and x-rays. In Avanti Health also may disclose your health information to people outside the practice who may be involved in your medical care after you leave In Avanti Health such as family members, clergy, and others used to provide services that are part of your care.

Other ways we may use or disclose your health information for purposes related to treatment are:

Treatment Alternatives: To tell you about or recommend possible treatment options or alternatives that may be of interest to you.

Appointment Reminders: To contact you as a reminder that you have an appointment for treatment or medical care at In Avanti Health.

Payment: In Avanti Health may release health information about you for the purposes of determining coverage, billing, claims management, medical data processing, and reimbursement. The information may be released to an insurance company, third party payer or other entity (or their authorized representatives) involved in the payment of your medical bill and may include copies or excerpts of your medical records which are necessary for payment of your account. For example, a bill sent to a third party payer may include information that identifies you, your diagnosis, and the procedures and supplies used. We may also provide payment information to other care providers who have been involved in your care, e.g., an ambulance company.

Routine Healthcare Operations: In Avanti Health may use and disclose your health information during routine healthcare operations, including quality assurance, utilization review, medical review, internal auditing, accreditation, certification, licensing, or credentialing activities of practice, medical research, and educational purposes. In Avanti Health may engage outside companies to carry out certain aspects of routine healthcare operations. These entities are called the “business associates” of In Avanti Health. In Avanti Health may need to disclose your health information to the business associates to allow them to perform their duties. The business associates will, in turn, use and disclose your health information as they conduct business on In Avanti Health’s behalf. Examples of business associates, include, but are not limited to, a copy service used by the practice to copy medical records, consultants, accountants, lawyers, medical transcriptionists, and third-party billing companies. In Avanti Health requires the business associate to protect the confidentiality of your health information.

Uses and Disclosures Requiring Your Authorization

In Avanti Health may not disclose your health information to persons outside of the practice for purposes other than treatment, payment or healthcare operations without your authorization. In addition, In Avanti Health may not use or disclose psychotherapy notes written by your mental health provider, if any, without your authorization, even for treatment, payment, or healthcare operations. You have the right to revoke any authorization you have previously given by submitting a written statement of revocation to In Avanti Health.

Uses and Disclosures to Which You May Object

Family/Friends: In Avanti Health may disclose your health information to a friend or family member who is involved in your medical care. We may also give information to someone who helps pay for your care. We may also tell your family or friends of your condition and that you are in the hospital. In addition, we may disclose health information about you to an entity assisting in a disaster relief effort so that your family can be notified about your condition, status and location. If you have any objection to the use and disclosure of your health information in this manner, please tell us.

Uses and Disclosures Required or Permitted Without Your Consent or Authorization

Research: Under certain circumstances, In Avanti Health may use and disclose your health information to approved clinical research studies. While most clinical research studies require specific patient consent, there are some instances where a retrospective record review with no patient contact may be conducted by such researchers. For example, the research project may involve comparing the health and recovery of patients who received one medication for their medical condition to those who received a different medication for that same condition.

Regulatory Agencies: In Avanti Health may disclose your health information to government and certain private health oversight agencies, e.g., the Department of Public Health and Environment, the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations or the Board of Medical Examiners, for activities authorized by law, including, but not limited to, licensure, certification, audits, investigations, and inspections. These activities are necessary to monitor compliance with the requirements of government programs.

Law Enforcement/Litigation: In Avanti Health may disclose your health information for law enforcement purposes as required by law or in response to a court order.

Public Health: As required by law, In Avanti Health may disclose your health information to public health or legal authorities charged with preventing or controlling disease, injury or disability. For example, In Avanti Health is required to report the existence of a communicable disease, such as acquired immune deficiency syndrome ("AIDS"), to the Department of Public Health and Environment to protect the health and well-being of the general public.

Workers' Compensation: In Avanti Health may release health information about you for workers' compensation or similar programs. These programs provide benefits for work-related injuries or illnesses.

Military/Veterans: In Avanti Health may disclose your health information as required by military command authorities, if you are a member of the armed forces.

As Otherwise Required by Law: In Avanti Health will disclose your health information in any situation in which such disclosure is required by law (e.g., child abuse, domestic abuse).

Your Rights Related to Your Health Information

Although all records concerning your treatment obtained at In Avanti Health are the property of the practice, you have the following rights concerning your health information:

Right to Confidential Communications: You have the right to receive confidential communications of your health information by alternative means or at alternative locations. For example, you may request that In Avanti Health only contact you at work or by mail.

Right to Inspect and Copy: You generally have the right to inspect and copy your health information, except as restricted by your health care provider, or by law.

Right to Amend: You have the right to request an amendment or correction to your health information. If we agree that an amendment or correction is appropriate, we will ensure that the amendment or correction is attached to your medical record.

Right to an Accounting: You have the right to obtain a statement of the disclosures that have been made of your health information other than by your authorization, other than to you and other than for the purpose of treatment, payment or routine operational purposes.

Right to Request Restrictions: You have the right to request restrictions on certain uses and disclosures of your health information. If we are able to agree to your request, we will abide by the restrictions.

Right to Receive Copy of this Notice: You have the right to receive a paper copy of this Notice, upon request, if this Notice has been provided to you electronically.

Right to Revoke Consent or Authorization: You have the right to revoke your consent or authorization to use or disclose your health information, except to the extent that action has already been taken in reliance on your consent or authorization.

For More Information Regarding How to Exercise These Rights: If you have questions or would like more information regarding any of the rights listed above, please contact In Avanti Health at 720-940-0145.

If You Believe That Your rights Have Been Violated: You may file a complaint with In Avanti Health or with the Secretary of the Department of Health and Human Services. There will be no retaliation for filing a complaint.

Changes to this Notice: In Avanti Health will abide by the terms of the Notice currently in effect. In Avanti Health reserves the right to change the terms of this Notice at any time. Any new Notice provisions will be effective for all protected health information that it maintains In Avanti Health will mail any revised Notice to the address indicated on the Patient Information Forms or such other address you may provide to us from time to time.
